

PRESS RELEASE:-

Linda Stansfield chief operating officer at the IMI announced the winners of Top Technician 2011 at the NEC car and commercial show and presented the awards.

Clive Atthowe was announced as the second place winner of this years Top Technician Competition 2011. Lisa Stansfield commented: -
These technicians are absolutely at the top of their game. They started the journey last year with more than 1,000 entrants, to being at the prize giving today. They have gone through online tests, the semi finals and the final earlier this year at the Honda institute the judges commented all the competitors' were extremely talented and displayed great knowledge and skill throughout the stages. In many cases the judges had difficulty trying to separate the technicians as it often came down to just a few points.
Their technical skills have been tested to the limit and they emerged as the best in the industry.